Subject: Clarification and Documentation for Duplicate Transaction Claim

Dear Dispute Team,

I am writing in response to your documentation request regarding my claim for a duplicate charge at the merchant LE COQ LAS ROZAS on March 28, 2026.

I believe there is a misunderstanding in the specific documentation requested. Your email asks for a "confirmation of reservation proving collection on the 3rd." However, this dispute does not involve a rental or a scheduled pickup. This was an in-person meal at a restaurant.

Reason for Dispute:

On March 28, 2026, I paid for a single meal at Le Coq Las Rozas. As shown in my previous evidence and your own records (Operation 206646525), I was charged 31.90 EUR at 13:56:52. A second, identical charge for 31.90 EUR was processed less than one minute later at 13:57. I did not place a second order; this is a clear technical duplication by the merchant's terminal.

Documentation Provided:

Bank Statement (Attached): Highlighting two identical charges from the same merchant within 60 seconds of each other.

Proof of Contact: I have previously provided a screenshot of the message sent to the merchant on March 30, 2026, requesting a refund for the error. The merchant has failed to respond.

Because this was a spontaneous restaurant visit, there is no "reservation" or "collection date." The evidence of the duplication lies in the timestamp and identical amount of the two transactions.

I kindly ask you to proceed with the chargeback for the duplicate transaction (the one at 13:57) based on the evidence of the simultaneous billing error.

Kind regards,

Anton Ametov
